

Candidate for the position of Environment Officer (PT)

Aditya Bairamoni

Turning Climate Promises Into Action

As your Environment Officer, I am committed to driving practical and visible sustainability improvements across UEA.

Climate change and environmental responsibility are no longer distant issues — they directly affect our generation and our future. UEA has the potential to be a leader in sustainability, and I want to ensure that students are at the centre of that progress.

1. Reducing Waste on Campus

Promote reduction of single-use plastics in university spaces

Encourage reusable alternatives through campaigns and student engagement

Collaborate with campus catering and societies to reduce food waste

Small daily changes can create a big collective impact.

2. Stronger Student Engagement in Sustainability

Many students care about the environment but don't always know how to get involved. I will:

Support sustainability-focused workshops and awareness events

Encourage eco-friendly initiatives within societies

Promote volunteering opportunities related to climate and conservation

Work with student groups to create environmentally responsible events

Sustainability should be accessible and inclusive for everyone.

3. Transparency and Accountability

Students deserve to know how the university is progressing on environmental goals. I will:

Push for clearer communication on carbon reduction targets

Advocate for transparent reporting of sustainability initiatives

Ensure student voices are represented in environmental decision-making

4. Sustainable Campus Culture

Sustainability is not just policy — it's culture. I will promote:

Awareness campaigns throughout the academic year

Environmentally responsible event planning

Collaboration between the Students' Union and university departments

Together, we can build a greener, more responsible, and forward-thinking UEA.

Let's turn commitment into action.
